Digital Innovation Lab

Madison County Library System is proud to present the Digital Innovation Lab equipped with a 3D printer, iMac's with Adobe Creative Suite software, and analog to digital video converter. Be on the lookout for programs and workshops that will teach, stretch, and help you grow, adapting you to the ever changing job market or that will help you learn a new life skill. The Digital Innovation Lab is located at the Canton branch dedicating materials and a physical space in the pursuit of science and technology exploration, and other creative discovery by individuals and groups within the community. We brought you the 3D printer but now the digital lab will offer computer enhancement opportunities. There is a need for community members to be able to affordably create functioning prototypes, students to create visual aids to aid in educational displays, and additional outlets for Madison County residents to express and develop their creativity in a safe, non-judgmental environment. The lab is also helping us partner with the local tourism office as part of their annual Young Filmmakers Workshop. Need help with a resume, job application, exploring occupations, finding a college, or obtaining an outline for the career you want to obtain? The digital lab is equipped with Learning Express Job and Career Accelerator. There will be educational programs and workshop designed for all ages around the digital learning environment. Be on the lookout in the future for additional add-ons to the Digital Innovation Lab!

New Faces, New Places

Ridgeland welcomes Erin Palmer as Full-Time Circulation Assistant

Erin Palmer started as a shelver at the Madison branch in 2014, where she was inspired to pursue a degree in Library and Information Science at the University of Southern Mississippi. She returned to her former shelving position at the Madison branch in June of 2017, and received her LIS degree in December. Erin has since then moved into a Full Time Circulation Assistant position at the Ridgeland Library. She plans to continue her education in the fall of this year and aims to achieve an MLIS degree. In her free time, Erin likes to read and write Science Fiction and plays the Pokemon Trading Card Game competitively.

Flora welcomes Roxanne Washington as Part-Time Circulation Assistant

Roxanne Washington is the new part time Circulation Assistant at the Flora Library. Roxanne is a resident of Canton and will be starting Holmes Community College in the fall of 2018. Roxanne is an avid reader of sci-fi, mysteries and romance. Roxanne's bubbly personality has fit in with the Flora team since she started on December 1, 2018.

Celebration of Black History Month

This year, the Canton branch celebrated Black History Month with style! We started off the month with a display highlighting the contributions of African American musicians, artists, scientists, and inventors. Patrons and library users were excited about story times, making crafts and listening to engaging speakers. “The Madison County Library System is doing a great job!”, according to a group of visitors as they took advantage of our wealth of online resources that helped to enrich their understanding of Black History and their own personal history.

Madison News

Hello everyone! Madison has been a busy place with many great things going on for our faithful patrons. We continue to have our book clubs each month, and our HigBEE Hive Quilters are going strong! We have also had a great group of ladies learning how to knit at our Adult Knitting class each month taught by our friend, Beverly, from the Southern Needle in Ridgeland. Beverly has been teaching our adults and children the art of knitting. Family Game Night is still the place to be for families who love to play games together. We hope to have even more families join us this summer!

Our Friends of the Library just had a huge book sale in February. It was possibly the most successful one ever! We are very fortunate to have such a supportive Friends group. As always, we want to say a big “thank you” to all of them for their hard work, especially during our book sales.

The Madison County Master Gardeners have continued working very hard on the library grounds and we are eager to see some of the blooms from their hard work. The group comes together on “clean-up day” to maintain and create our beautiful landscape at the library. Once a year, they host an annual plant swap, which was held on March 24. Fifty people were in attendance at this year’s plant swap because of the sunshine unlike last year. After the meeting, those in attendance discussed plants and shared ideas with the group. The Friends of the Madison Library provided a light breakfast for everyone.

Our sensory programming has been a wonderful addition to what we offer our community and we hope to increase these types of programs in the future. Current sensory programs include: story time, movie time, and LEGO building. With the popularity of our sensory programs rising, we also want to offer support programs for the families of our friends with sensory needs. We feel extremely lucky to partner with FACTS Group, which is a local support group for families of children with autism spectrum disorder. The FACTS Group meets monthly in our meeting space. Members of the FACTS Group have done a wonderful job of bringing in knowledgeable and informative speakers.

Youth Programs at the Madison Branch

This year began with some exciting programs. One highlight was a visit from New York Times best-selling author Angie Thomas, author of The Hate U Give. She introduced a new writing program we are offering and promises to visit our Wellers’ Writing Groups in the future.

Other featured programs were a birthday celebration for Dr. Seuss, a library scavenger hunt, and a Valentine’s Day party. In April and May, a local cartoonist will be coming to draw sketches of our kiddos and their parents.

This summer, our library will rock with a ballet dancer, a videographer, line dancers, a park ranger, magicians, local theater performers, and more. We are looking forward to a great time celebrating our summer theme of music and the theme "Libraries Rock".

Upcoming Adult Programs

In April, we will have our regular programming as well as welcome "GardenMama" Nellie Neal to our library on Thursday, April 19 at 10:30 a.m. She will be here to share seasonal gardening tips and to answer any questions you may have about your gardens. April is also Poetry Month and we will be celebrating "Poem in Your Pocket Day" on April 26. On this day, staff members will keep a short poem on them which they will read to patrons upon request. We will also have as part of our Poetry Month display, pre-made pockets with short poems in them for our patrons to take home as another addition to the April 26 celebration.

On May 23 at 2 p.m., we will have a Veteran's Benefits Informational Outreach Program. This program is structured around the available benefits for veterans and their families. Also, in May, we will welcome Shelia Spann from Merit Health in Madison. She will teach a three-part class series on diabetes. This class will be open for those with diabetes, those diagnosed with pre-diabetes, and those who want to learn how to prevent the disease.

This summer, we will have our Adult Summer Reading Program for the second year in a row. There will be programs adapted around adults as well as a chances to win prizes for their reading efforts. We hope to have just as much fun, if not more, than we did last summer!

Ridgeland News

Adult Programs

We have evolved most of our programming to fit the needs of the working environment of Ridgeland. Patrons love that we stay open a little later for them to enjoy programming in the library after work providing them with the materials they request for a great time! We decided to transform Gaming 101, to "Get Graphic", a graphic novel book club to see if we can have a steady growth in attendance.

Community Partnerships

We recognized that customers of Comic Commander are avid comic book readers and not hardcore gamers, so we shifted our focus for this outreach opportunity. We will be kicking it off in June. We also have continued our outreach to the two nursing homes in the Ridgeland area and have a few new volunteers who have been helping us.

The Children's area is growing with innovating programming, like adult programming, which finds the niche that works for the children and teens of the area. Ms. Keke has been doing great striving to bring the "community to the library" and the "library to the community" with her outreach programs to local daycares.

Coming up this next year are some special programs such as the Music and Mind Series during our Adult Summer Reading program. We will have speakers come and talk about ways music impacts movies, games, and more. We will show case live music with three local musicians/bands on Thursdays. This will help promote community involvement and truly display the meaning of this year's Summer Reading, "Libraries Rock".

The Dinner Murder Mystery Parties have been a hit. We will be launching our third one in July after summer reading. We have had requests from our patrons to keep this program in our rotating schedule and will find ways to implement them at least two to three times a year.

Escape The Library 4 will happen in August. It has been wildly popular and we want to keep the interest growing. The combination of working with the Breakout EDU items and using the library as a unique spin has worked wonders.

Anti-bullying programs are NOT boring!

On Thursday, January 25, the Canton branch collaborated with Tashmia Powell-Turner, Family & Consumer Sciences Extension Agent (Madison County Extension Service), and acted as cyber-arms in protecting both adults and children from Cyber-bullies. At this workshop, Ms. Turner emphasized how new technologies such as; instant messaging, text messaging, e-mail, social networking sites, and video capable cell phones have taken on a new life and a new name: cyberbullying. Attendees learned that there are several methods and rules that can help them and their child/children deal with the cyberbullies in their neighborhood.

Each branch of the Madison County Library System strives to connect its community in a way that benefits everyone. And as such, per our patrons and library users suggestions, we now host a yoga class. This is a free one-hour yoga class on the first Friday of every month taught by Ms. Jean Powers.

Ms. Powers is a Speech Instructor at Holmes Community College and has worked part-time for UMMC's University

Wellness Center in Flowood (aka Courthouse Racquetball & Fitness Club) as a Yoga/Abs/

Pilates Instructor since 2001. You may have seen her in a couple of television commercials a few years ago for UMMC. She was one of the first yoga teachers in MS to become registered through Yoga Alliance (info.yogaalliance.com), a national organization which lists names of instructors in the country licensed to teach yoga. Instructors must be approved and have 80+ training session hours, 14 hours of observation

& assisting, and 12 hours student teaching to receive RYT designation to begin teaching. But that is just the beginning she says. She went on to receive training in all levels of Yogafit, CCYT (Christ Centered Yoga Training), and Yin Yoga certifications. She started her yoga journey in 1982 searching for a way to relieve chronic back pain. "I found when I did yoga, I didn't hurt as much—so I did more and more of it to relieve my pain. It also helps me to sleep better and deal with daily stress. I especially enjoy working with those who have injuries and showing them safe modifications. Most of yoga is physical therapy designed to help heal the body."

Our monthly Diabetes Self-Management Workshop with Merit Health is a community-based workshop which allows participants to maintain a quality of life when living with type 2 diabetes. The workshops are facilitated by Shelia Spann, Pharm. D. CDE (Pharmacist and Diabetes Educator), and trained professionals, who live with or help people manage diabetes.

The Canton branch has partnered with Canton-Madison (MS) Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. Ken Jones is a member of the Canton-Madison (MS) Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. where he serves as Guide Right Director. Their Guide Right program includes mentors such as the former Canton Mayor Arnel Bolden, former State Senator Kenny Wayne Jones, Warren Reed, Sr., and many others. This program is geared towards students in grades 9-11 and is designed to help students for educational, occupational, and social guidance of male students.

They focus on 5 pillars that include- Self Identity, Training, Competition, Social and Health Education. Currently, we have 45 students in the Central Mississippi chapter and it usually opens up for new attendees in April or May of each year.

Timmy Pickett, Crisis Specialist Region 8 Mental Health, will host a specialized mental health training program at the Canton branch on Tuesday, May 15, 2018, from 5:30 pm –6:30 pm. This workshop will raise awareness, break down stigmas, increase individuals' alertness on how to look for signs associated with suicide or harm to self or others, encourage people to seek appropriate professional help, inspire self-help, reassure the importance of listening nonjudgmentally and other support approaches.

Patrons eagerly joined a demonstration of our 3D-Printer conducted by Director, Tonja Johnson. Many patrons and library users have expressed how excited they are and can hardly wait to try their hands at the new technology. The demonstration was well received. According to an observer, "I am fascinated by the way 3D printing allows me to create educational materials, real world products, and other COOL STUFF!"

Party Central at the Flora Library

The Flora Library has been having a grand time with our patrons. We have "partied hardy" for Christmas, Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day. The adults and children of the community are realizing that the library is "The Spot!"

On December 16, the library hosted a Christmas party for our patrons. We are happy to say that more people came than expected. We had to rearrange what we had planned for the party to host the 62 people in attendance. We played one big game in the meeting room with the children and their parents. Afterwards, we attempted to sing two Christmas carols but it went horribly and hilariously wrong. Not everyone knew the words to the songs. After singing, we served refreshments outside in our green space. Two parents, LaRhonda Brown and Vina Jackson, helped with serving refreshments. We are very proud to say that we provided a gift for every child and parent that came. The children were excited to receive wrapped presents from under our Christmas tree. Everyone truly had a wonderful time!

On February 10, we hosted a Valentine's party for our Flora families. It was a huge success with 55 people in attendance. Face painting was a hit, done by Tawny Minton, for all of the children and parents. I told her that she did a great job and we would definitely use her for all of our other programs. We played a fun trivia game with families as teams. One young patron agreed to let us decorate her with lights and hearts and we all took a cute Valentine's picture under our hangin' hearts!

For the week of March 11 - 17, we celebrated St. Patrick's Day. Our biggest success was Shake Day in which we served 31 Shamrock Shakes to the public and Cupcake Day in which we served 40 cupcakes and 39 cookies, all of which were green. Kayla made an awesome display in which she made a leprechaun hat out of all green books from our donations.

In other news, on December 1-2, the Friends of the Library hosted a book sale. This was the first book sale ever held in the meeting room with over 1,000 books. Patrons from the Madison, Ridgeland and Flora areas came out to browse our books. The book sale was not as successful as we all had hoped, but we did sell about $120 worth of books. The setup was new for the community, but once they get adjusted to having one, our profits from the book sale will be much better. We are still currently giving away books in our "Little Free Library" outside as well to two other smaller libraries in need of expanding their collection. We are offering patrons free books and gladly accepting any monetary donations that they would like to give.

With February being Black History month and also Valentine's Day why not address heart issues? Heart disease is the number one killer for all Americans, and stroke is also a leading cause of death. Statistics show the risk of getting these diseases are higher for African-Americans. Again, Merit Health sponsored a Health Fair at our branch with speaker Linda Chambers, CNP. She was able to answer the many questions and supply other helpful information. Eat healthy, exercise, lose weight. Remember, to feel "fit as a fiddle" you must tone down your middle.

Over the past months, we have attended several training workshops. All were informative and will enable us to do a better job at assisting our library patrons.

A Bookmobile for the Madison County Library System is in our very near future. You can help make this possible by making a monetary donation. For your convenience all branches are equipped with tubes for you to drop in your donations. Checks need to be made payable to The Library Foundation of Madison County. Any/all donations are appreciated!

On March 22 from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm the Madison County Citizens Services Agency was at the Camden branch assisting eligible citizens in getting help with their utilities.

Outreach Service to Detention Facilities and Jails

We're excited for the opportunity to provide paperbacks to the Madison County Community Work Center (CWC) and the Flowood CWC and Restitution Center. We continue to send paperback general fiction, fantasy, historical fiction, thrillers, action adventure, biographies, mystery and suspense, and popular nonfiction.

In the Works

The Canton branch is currently partnering with the Madison County Community Work Center (CWC) to provide different types of programming aimed at assisting prisoners in learning lifelong skills.

My Library Story

LIBRARIES LEAD

I began volunteering at the Madison branch soon after moving to Mississippi four years ago. Before that, I'd worked in two public library systems in the Washington, DC metro area. They were both large and wealthy, and each served many thousands of patrons. I expected things to be very different here but found that the Madison library offered the services of big city systems with a small-town warmth and community focus.

There are books, of course - on the shelf, on CD or cassette tape, and on the Library's website for digital download. There are magazines, computers, printers, copiers and fax machines. There are reading and craft groups, seasonal programs, film screenings, programs for adults, for children, and for special needs groups. In short, I found everything I thought a good public library should offer. Yet as good as these services are, they probably wouldn't account for the smiles I see on the faces of patrons as they come through the door and are greeted by the staff. Sometimes it seems to me everybody in Madison has a friend at this library. That's because our Madison Library thinks big but acts like a neighbor. Everything it does - the materials it buys (books in all their formats, DVDs, databases, computers, etc.) and the programs it offers - is done with a knowledge of the Madison community acquired over many years of listening and serving. The public libraries we have today are one of the greatest legacies of American democracy. In my view they are one of the last, few places that bring our communities together. This is the spirit I see at work at the Madison Library.

But as Joni Mitchell famously warned: "You don't know what you've got 'til it's gone." There is no law that requires communities to have a library. Many in Mississippi do not. We in Madison County are fortunate to have mayors, county supervisors and - so far - state legislators who understand and support the work of our public libraries. When the financial crisis of 2008 hit, officials across the country decided they had many priorities more important to them than libraries, and so branches were closed, hours reduced and staff and programs eliminated. As a librarian at that time, I saw this firsthand. I discovered then that even in good times, public libraries tend to get the smallest slice of the budgetary pie.

We are so accustomed to having libraries that we assume they'll always be there for us or our children and their children. But we have to remind ourselves that we library users are the "public" in "public library" and have a role in insuring its well-being. Fortunately, nothing could be easier. The way I see it every library patron is also a library advocate. Everyone who checks out or downloads a book, uses a computer or attends a program is making a statement of support that says "I care about this!"

What more needs to be said? Y'all come!

Phillip Volland - Retired Librarian - Madison, MS

LIBRARIES LEAD

Today was our first time attending the Lego club at our local library, but it did NOT disappoint! As a mom, I appreciate how the class began with reading a book, followed by Lego creative building time and even ending with the opportunity to present their masterpiece on a “real microphone!” This was a fun learning experience. Thank you!

Much love!

I am Martina B. Griffin, Justice Court Judge for Madison County. Being a native of Camden, Mississippi, born and raised, I can remember when the area was only trees, grass, and dirt. It warms my heart each day to drive pass and see the beauty that has developed. The greatest development in my opinion is the Camden Library and “NO” it’s not just because it’s named after my father. This library provides an environment for learning, developing, discovering, and achieving. The Camden Library is the center of sophistication that embodies what Camden is all about.

Martina B. Griffin- Camden Library

My favorite childhood memory is every Thursday my mother leaving me at the public library while she grocery shopped. I grew up in a rural area of the Carolinas and we only went to town once a week. Getting new books to read each week was always a thrill and the library was so quiet and peaceful; much like yoga classes. It was a place where I felt safe and could lose myself and total relax absorbed in my imagination of whatever I was reading. Again, much like a yoga class—safe with no stressful thoughts about responsibilities or difficult relationships. As a child I used to get a flashlight to read well into the night and sometimes now as an adult I go to the library just to sit quietly to enjoy magazines. The Canton Library is one of the most beautiful libraries I’ve ever seen. The activity room where our yoga class is located is perfect and it’s a wonderful group of all ages. I’m also teaching a combination yoga & Pilates class at Ridgeland Recreational Retirement Center on Thursdays from 4-5 for those in the area. All are welcome to leave your worries with your shoes at the door to come to the classes. Nowhere else in the area can you receive FREE yoga as the Canton library is providing the first Friday of each month. What a blessing for all who come!

Youth Services

Where Imagination Happens

The Madison County Library System youth services team has had such a busy and exciting year so far! This fall saw the relaunch of our 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten program. This program focuses on the five practices that will help build early literacy and pre-reading skills including: play, sing, read, write, and talk. Our MCLS patrons have done an amazing job embracing the program! Our local Excel by 5 of North Madison County coalition has done a great job in helping us to spread awareness about this program! MCLS also participated as a voting location for this year's Magnolia Book Voting which students from all over Mississippi read the same books and then voted for their favorites to receive the Magnolia Book Award!

Our Madison branch had a special winter performance with Magician Dorian LaChance who caused it to snow inside the library just in time for Santa to visit! Madison was thrilled to host New York Times bestselling author, Angie Thomas, this spring! Madison also saw an increase in programs offering coding for youth and teens, knitting classes, family yoga, family game night, a teen anime club, a new writers' group, and the addition of sensory programming.

The Ridgeland branch has continued to work towards updating their spaces with new paint, furniture, and materials. They have also continued to expand their programs this year with a new Open Playtime program for children ages birth to five, a slime making workshop, crazy crafts, family theater events, teen escape rooms, and they will be hosting their first after-hours teen event featuring a NERF® battle soon!

The Flora branch is doing some exciting things with regular community focused programs such as their Solar Eclipse Viewing Party in August, the Holiday Party in December, and the Valentine's Party in February! Flora has also added "Game On!", LEGO® building, Teen Takeover, and Maker Monday programs as well as a family movie Saturday program this year.

Where Imagination Happens

The Canton branch has been busy getting updated with new paint, furniture, and materials. As part of last fall's Outside the Lines programming, Canton hosted our first "Touch a Truck" program with the aid of Canton Wal-Mart, Kona Ice, CMU, Spencer Ready Mix, Puckett Rentals, the Canton Police Department, and the Canton Fire Department! Canton has also been busy expanding their programs to include a coding club, family craft night, family game night, family movie night, teen STEAM programs, and teen movie programs. If you haven't visited the updated space yet be sure to check out the MakerSpace table where there is always an "Invitation to Create" project set up and ready to go!

The Camden branch had a spooktacular Halloween event that included carnival type games, face painting, a movie, and dinner. They are also busily preparing not only for the upcoming Summer Reading Program but adding a community garden!

We are busily getting ready for this year's upcoming Summer Reading Program. This year's theme is "Libraries Rock!" with an emphasis on music. This year we will have a dancing cow visit, some magical performances, and a lot of dancing and fun! Keep an eye out for more information on the MCLS website this May!

We're going RETRO

Madison County Bookmobile c.1988

Bringing it back Fall of 2018!

Help us bring back the BOOKMOBILE!

We have reimagined the bookmobile as a mobile library complete with books, periodicals, computer stations, genealogy resources, free Wi-Fi and more. We will partner with local schools, nursing homes, churches, daycares, businesses and special events to bring a full range of library services into the community. Patrons may even request materials in advance to be delivered by the bookmobile! And the bookmobile, with its free Wi-Fi and computer stations, will serve as a mobile research and job application center.

Systems and Technology

Knowledge is Power

The Technology team at Madison County Library System has been diligently working to bring our patrons and staff the best user experience with software and equipment. This year we installed new network switches at our branches to utilize additional bandwidth. In addition, we replaced all legacy hard drives with solid state drives and upgraded the memory on all public computers. These upgrades will help the patrons to browse and use the computer faster and more efficiently. The library system invested in some cool new services for adults and youth alike. Britannica Online brings a variety of different research medias together in one place such as encyclopedias, websites, eBooks, magazines and more for the ultimate learning experience. The Learning Express Job and Career Accelerator is perfect for adults looking for colleges, needing help with resume design and format, finding a career match, and exploring occupations. The new Digital Innovation Lab at the Canton Branch will enhance and expand patron's technology experience. The lab consists of Macs, Adobe Creative Cloud software for graphic design, video editing software, and more. We also updated our AV equipment for Ridgeland, Canton, Flora, and Camden with Blu-Ray players, speakers, and short-throw LCD projector to improve family and youth viewing programs. To meet the needs of our patrons, we plan to add additional equipment to the Digital Innovation Lab, replace public computers with Windows 10 machines, purchase Chromebooks for Youth Services programming, and upgrade bandwidth at all branches.
